

This kitty is one of those stolen ('seized') by the RSPCA from Glynne Sutcliffe in April 2012. The RSPCA is now prosecuting Glynne for not providing adequate facilities" for care of her cats. Glynne's case is clearly part of the pattern.

This kitty is one of those stolen ('seized') by the RSPCA from Glynne Sutcliffe in April 2012. The RSPCA is now prosecuting Glynne for not providing adequate facilities" for care of her cats. Glynne's case is clearly part of the pattern.

This kitty is one of those stolen ('seized') by the RSPCA from Glynne Sutcliffe in April 2012. The RSPCA is now prosecuting Glynne for not providing adequate facilities" for care of her cats. Glynne's case is clearly part of the pattern.

HELP STOP RSPCA PROSECUTION SCANDALS:

There is a pattern in which we see the RSPCA regularly prosecuting older people, often disabled and especially women, who live alone. Provided they have animals to provide an excuse, the RSPCA will then set up a prosecution to 'harvest' their assets, legally. Technically it is easy to classify as "abuse of process", but magistrates again and again allow the RSPCA to get away with it.

If you think it sounds bad, it is! Please help us end the way the RSPCA bullies vulnerable people for expedience. Add your voice to the growing chorus of outrage at this particularly nasty version of elder abuse.

Check out the new Community Run website for more detailed analysis and more facts.

www.communityrun.org/petitions/stop-rspca-prosecution-scandals-1

HELP STOP RSPCA PROSECUTION SCANDALS:

There is a pattern in which we see the RSPCA regularly prosecuting older people, often disabled and especially women, who live alone. Provided they have animals to provide an excuse, the RSPCA will then set up a prosecution to 'harvest' their assets, legally. Technically it is easy to classify as "abuse of process", but magistrates again and again allow the RSPCA to get away with it.

If you think it sounds bad, it is! Please help us end the way the RSPCA bullies vulnerable people for expedience. Add your voice to the growing chorus of outrage at this particularly nasty version of elder abuse.

Check out the new Community Run website for more detailed analysis and more facts.

www.communityrun.org/petitions/stop-rspca-prosecution-scandals-1

HELP STOP RSPCA PROSECUTION SCANDALS:

There is a pattern in which we see the RSPCA regularly prosecuting older people, often disabled and especially women, who live alone. Provided they have animals to provide an excuse, the RSPCA will then set up a prosecution to 'harvest' their assets, legally. Technically it is easy to classify as "abuse of process", but magistrates again and again allow the RSPCA to get away with it.

If you think it sounds bad, it is! Please help us end the way the RSPCA bullies vulnerable people for expedience. Add your voice to the growing chorus of outrage at this particularly nasty version of elder abuse.

Check out the new Community Run website for more detailed analysis and more facts.

www.communityrun.org/petitions/stop-rspca-prosecution-scandals-1